Vanessa Pappas, the Interim Head of TikTok also shared out a affirmation on the app's eventful year: It's been our pleasure to see these videos and creators grow and plowshare what experience suit iconic, sometimes tied life-changing, moments of 2020. TikTok is here to land pleasure, and with the class we've accomplished, I'm thrilled to pick out a trip shoot down computer memory alley and fete the innumerable of slipway the TikTok community helped us close, bridge deck divides, and line up both nimbleness and poignancy when we requisite it about. In its class roundup, the keep company awards the transcend 10 viral videos of the class, which features many familiar faces. Among them are Nathan Apodaca's shudder (and Stevie Nicks-approved) video of him skateboarding to Fleetwood Mac's "Dreams" and Bella Poarch's mesmeric lip-synch to Millie B's "M to the B".
